Leaders: Center future 'iffy'

TIM STEPHENSON / Press-Record

The Tri-Cities area needs to put forth a unified vision for the future of the Charles Melvin Price Support Center, area business and political leaders say.

Unified effort needed to secure base's future

By Scott Kelly
Staff writer

The Charles Melvin Price Support Center needs your help. While the U.S. Army performs its Record of Excess to determine what, if not all, of the base is surplus property, leaders and concerned residents in the Tri-Cities area need to be prepared for any possible scenario regarding the base's future, said Jim Pennkamp, executive director of the Leadership Council Southwestern Illinois.

Pennkamp spoke to numerous community leaders Wednesday morning at the Rotary Club's Community Action Prayer Breakfast. The Leadership Council has played a major role in keeping the Price center and Scott Air Force Base from being closed. The Record of Excess, or ROE, is an internal military process through which the military decides what to do with a base that has fallen below a certain personnel threshold. The Army Material Command, which controls the Price base, no longer wants to pay the costs of keeping the base open when the Army uses only a small portion of the base.

"Defense spending is going down," Pennkamp said. "The fix for all of this would be a great infusion of money, (but) nobody believes that is going to happen." The ROE is different from the BRAC, or Base Realignment and Closing, which the base faced in 1995, because a BRAC cannot occur without Congressional legislation. A Record of Excess doesn't need further legislation to close a base that that already in place.

Pontoon Beach's NFIP participation under scrutiny

By Scott Cousins
Staff writer

In late October, Pontoon Beach officials assured residents that the village was working with the Federal Emergency Management Agency to deal with long-standing floodplain problems.

Now some village officials say they are not so sure. Confusion over Pontoon Beach's status in complying with floodplain requirements led to heated discussion at a special village board meeting Monday.

At the meeting, former Village Attorney Keith Jensen — who is still handling floodplain matters for the village — was instructed to contact FEMA and find out the village's official status.

Much of the discussions Monday centered around a letter from FEMA's Terry Reuss Fell to Mayor Glen Wilson.

The letter, dated Oct. 15, said that FEMA was moving to terminate the village's participation in the National Flood Insurance Program.

It specifically cited "repeated attempts to maintain active communication with the village" over its status.

"Although we believed there have been some progress, such as reaching agreement on the minimum corrective measures necessary at Timberlake and Quality Courts, we have no evidence that documentable actions have taken place," the letter said. "Therefore, under our regulations, we must move ahead to terminate the village's eligibility in the NFIP."

Officials with FEMA and the Illinois Department of Natural Resources could not be reached for comment, but Wilson said the matter was handled immediately and the village was in no danger of losing flood insurance eligibility.

Monday's meeting was called by Trustees Irene Karlechik, Gus Falter and Randy Presswood. Falter said they had not been informed about the letter.

"I told them about it, but they wouldn't listen," Wilson said. "They were aware."

He also complained that the letter was addressed to him, but copies were given to residents in the mobile home park.

Ohio artist scams resident of $1,400 Granite police issue warning

By Scott Kelly
Staff writer

Granite City detectives are looking for an Ohio man who scammed an elderly resident out of $1,400.

According to police reports, Louis Boswell and four cohorts began "pitching" the driveway of a Johnson Road resident at 9 a.m. Tuesday. The resident asked what they were doing.

The Ohio man said they were patching his driveway, and despite the resident's protests, said they would patch his driveway and sidewalk cracks for $20. The city of Granite City would pay for the rest of the bill, Boswell told him.

The resident handed over a signed check and told Boswell to fill in the amount owed. The Ohio man then cashed the check at a Mercantile Bank for $1,400 instead of the agreed-upon $20.

The resident's nephew attempted to have the check canceled, but he was too late, police said.

Detectives are looking for Boswell, 40, who is a 5-foot 10-inch tall, brown-haired white man weighing approximately 250 pounds.

Police obtained Boswell's drivers license number, social security number and fingerprints from Mercantile Bank.

Race cars, such as this NASCAR Busch Grand National car, will be running under a new lighting system next year at Gateway International Raceway, track officials recently announced.

More changes in store for GIR in '99

Lights, extra seats on agenda

By Scott Cousins
Staff writer

In two years Gateway International Raceway in Madison has grown from "the swamp" to a major motorsports park, and more big changes are in store for next year.

With the announcement of the NASCAR Busch Series and Craftsman Truck Series schedules for next year, GIR's plans to light the track have become official.

And although plans to almost double the capacity of the track and add a bridge to the infield have been modified, the track will have a whole new look next year with almost $10 million in improvements.

"NASCAR Night. Has a great ring to it," said GIR President and General Manager Rod Wolter. "We're about to begin work on a state-of-the-art lighting system for the oval track. That will allow us to move the Gateway 250 and the Ram Tough 200 back into the height of the summer racing season, while doing so at a time that will provide more comfort, convenience and maximum excitement for our fans."

Wolter said the lighting on the straightaway will be brighter than those at Busch Stadium. Light is measured in foot-candles.

"The infield of a baseball diamond has about 70-75 foot candles of light," he said. "Ours will be about 100-130 down the front straightaway."

Business may move to Adams

By Scott Kelly
Staff writer

Illinois Electric Works may move to Granite City with the help from a $1.6 million tax-exempt bond from the city.

The East St. Louis company, which repairs heavy electrical generators, is looking at the closed Illinois Power building and surrounding land at 2161 Adams St. The move would put it much closer to some of its major customers, including American Steel and Granite City Steel.

The City Council approved issuing the bond at its regular meeting Tuesday night.

Dan Brown, Granite City economic development director, explained that their is no obligation on the part of the city for the bonds; rather, the company is completely responsible and would issue the bonds.

Authority to issue the bond — a yearly event in the city — comes from the federal government for industrial purposes.

The company would bring 32 existing jobs to Granite City, Brown said, and would probably hire six or seven more people.

"They're an excellent company that comes with a high recommendation," he said.

Illinois Electric would be turning down an opportunity to construct a new facility in the Saugeit Industrial Park, he said.

The property was appraised at $790,000, one reason why the city itself did not buy it. The company paid close to that amount.

The company coming here would be a good deal for the city, he said. The federal government allows the city to sell the bond if it wants to. Rather than giving it to a company, Granite City would get $16,000 for selling it, Brown said.

State politics took several strange twists

By Rich Miller
Staff writer

Left was right and right was left in Illinois politics this year. As we all know by now, the Democratic candidate for governor was to the right of his Republican opponent on abortion and guns. And you probably heard that Republican George Ryan criticized Glenn Poshard for not supporting gay rights, then proposed rolling back veterans' preferences in state hiring.

The situation was no less weird in the state legislature. House Republican Leader Lee Daniels spent the year continuing a war with his party's right wing. The religious right has attempted to defeat several of Daniel's pro-choice GOP members in primary after primary, and Daniels has viciously returned fire.

Democratic House Speaker Mike Madigan, meanwhile, warmly embraced the religious right. He met with their leaders often. He pushed some of their pro-life, anti-pornography legislative conservative candidates to run for the House, and he backed a pro-life Democrat for governor.

Madigan drove a wedge between Daniels and the right, depriving the Republicans of three vital political commodities: 1) committed volunteers; 2) money; and 3) votes.

The alliance between Madigan and the conservatives produced some interesting results throughout the state. For example, the pro-life, anti-pornography, Republican-leaning Family PAC spent thousands of dollars to run ads for two suburban Chicago Democrats: South suburban freshman state Rep. Kevin McCarthy, D-Orlando Park, and west suburban Democrat Mark Kuchler of La Grange Park.

McCarthy is a staunch pro-life who sponsored a bill to give a $500 tax credit to parents with children in private and religious schools. Kuchler ran against appointed Rep. Bill O'Connor, R-Riverside, who is completely pro-choice and backed by pro-gambling forces.

Downstate, Family PAC ran radio ads blasting appointed state Rep. Dale Righter, R-Mattoon. Righter took credit in the campaign for co-sponsoring legislation that made seduction of a minor via the Internet a crime.

But the first offense was just a misdemeanor, which Family PAC thought was an unacceptably weak punishment. The group's ads portrayed the former prosecutor as soft on crime.

This strange alliance between one of the state's most powerful Democrats and the religious right has liberal activists in a total tizzy.

Terry Cosgrove, the director of the pro-choice Personal PAC, has been absolutely furious with Madigan for caving with the right wing. He is so enraged that he even sent out direct mail attacking moderately pro-choice Democrats who ran against pro-life Republicans. Yes, you read that right.

Cosgrove reasons that Republicans control of the House was better for pro-choicers than Democrats' domination. Lee Democratic domination. Lee Daniels is pro-life, but his pro-choice GOP members were almost always able to force him to compromise, unlike Madigan's pro-choice Democrats.

Cosgrove has been most upset with Democrats like freshman Rep. Mary K. O'Brien, D-Coal City. O'Brien was pro-choice, and still is, but she voted for a couple of bills that were strongly backed by the pro-life lobby.

Cosgrove didn't back anyone in the race for governor even though George Ryan positioned himself to the center on abortion. Cosgrove worked hard, however, to thwart Glenn Poshard at every turn.

The Personal PAC director's dislike for Poshard was so intense that when he heard the rumor about how infamous right-wing activist Penny Pullen was a shoe-in for the a major job in a potential Ryan administration, Cosgrove said that was fine with him.

Wow. His response almost knocked me off my chair. Cosgrove spent a fortune against former state Rep. Pullen in two Republican primaries, defeating her in the second whack. A few years ago, she was everything the enemy embodied to him.

But a big-time Ryan job for Pullen, even in a policy position, doesn't bother Cosgrove these days. A state job would hold her back, he said, and cut down on her political activities.

Oh, what a weird year.

Who is your favorite hero?

Guns are an increasing health problem

By Dr. Gary A. Garner

Illinois and six other states have the dubious distinction of killing more young people (age 15-24) per capita with guns than with cars. More than 1,400 people in Illinois were killed with guns in 1995 and many times that number were shot and injured.

When the next governor comes into office, he needs to make the issue of gun violence a top priority. It's clear people in Illinois see gun violence as a major public health hazard.

According to a recent Chicago Tribune poll, the majority of people in Illinois — including those downstate — support preserving gun control regulations already in place and want to strengthen them further.

Gun violence is not just a criminal justice issue, but increasingly, a strain on our health system. Many families lack the resources or the insurance to pay for medical bills. Citizens in Illinois end up footing the bill indirectly for the high price of medical care from gunshot wounds and recovery and rehabilitative services.

According to a report from Children's Memorial Medical

Guns are an increasing health problem

Center in Chicago, The government picked up the tab for more than $30 million in the care of pediatric gunshot patients during a three-year period.

To begin with, the governor and public officials need to make a commitment to uphold the current gun control laws. Some of these are already under attack. In 1995, the well-organized, well-financed gun lobby almost succeeded in overturning an Illinois law prohibiting the carrying of concealed firearms.

They may try again this year, despite the fact that the law has strong support with 70 percent of those polled by the Tribune opposing allowing concealed weapons in the state.

This attempt to overthrow the concealed weapons law is part of a disturbing "Wild West" trend which condones the carrying of concealed weapons into streets, restaurants, churches and other common areas. Such mentality can only drive our firearm epidemic statistics higher. It also runs counter to public sentiment for more strict controls.

The ability for local communities to supersede state gun laws is also under attack. Illinois currently acknowledges local laws passed by communities restricting handguns in its neighborhoods. These local laws override weaker state laws. Unless the governor commits to preserving this aspect of local self-governance, handgun bans passed by local communities, such as Oak Park, could be overturned.

The governor and elected officials also should pass new laws that address this public health hazard in our state. One straightforward uncontroversial measure is a Child Access Prevention law that requires gun-owning parents to keep their weapons secured and out of their children's reach.

No one, parents or otherwise, can argue against this common sense proposition. Fifteen states already have instituted CAP laws. Preliminary research suggests they help cut accidental gun deaths among children.

Also, while many of the guns used in crimes end up on the street illegally, some of them originally were purchased legally through a gun dealer. In fact, officials from the Bureau of Alcohol, Tobacco and Firearms say as many as 60 percent of the guns recovered and traced from crimes were purchased legally at one time.

Purchasing guns with the intent to resell them is technically illegal. However, because Illinois has no limit on the number of guns anyone can purchase from licensed gun shops, it's all too easy for a person to buy several guns and resell them illegally to juveniles, felons or others.

To reduce the likelihood of the illegal reselling of guns, Illinois needs a "one gun a month" law, which would restrict the purchase of firearms in a year to 12.

Illinois citizens want safer streets and safer homes. If the next governor is serious about serving the needs of the people of Illinois, he must make these life-saving measures an immediate priority.

Illinois cannot afford to waste any more resources — human or financial — on gun violence.

Gardner is a pediatrician in private practice in Darien. He is a past president of the Illinois Chapter of the American Academy of Pediatrics and is a member of the Handgun Epidemic Lowering Plan Network.

Census Bureau taking door-to-door survey

Local crime focus of questions, police say

By Scott Cousins
Staff writer

There are some nosy people in town, but they really do work for the government. The U.S. Census Bureau is going door-to-door throughout the country — including the Metro-East area — conducting a special survey for the U.S. Department of Justice.

Maj. Kip Pomeroy of the Granite City Police Department said the department has been contacted by several residents concerned about the census takers and he confirmed that they were legitimate. He also said that when they come to someone's door, they will present official identification.

The survey, called the National Crime Victimization Survey, collects data measuring the kinds and amounts of crime involving people 12 years and older who have been recently victimized.

"The survey provides information about how much crime there actually is, where and when it occurs, which segments of the population are most frequently victimized, and what costs results," Harry A. Scarr, acting director of the Bureau of the Census.

He said the answers will be used to help law enforcement, judicial and correctional agencies improve their effectiveness.

The survey involves approximately 72,000 addresses across the country. He noted that the Census Bureau did not pick individuals, but addresses, and if one household would move away and another move in, they would interview the new family.

Scarr said the information given to the interviewer is confidential.

Interviews take approximately 25 minutes.

"We use your answers only for statistical purposes from which no information about you as an individual can be identified," he said. "The survey is voluntary and there are no penalties for not participating."

However, he said cooperation is very important.

"Each unanswered question substantially lessens the accuracy of the final data," he said.

Although primarily known for performing the decennial census every 10 years, the Bureau conducts surveys for law enforcement, agriculture, business and other governmental agencies.

For further information, call (313) 551-6728 or write Regional Director, Bureau of the Census, Gateway Tower II, Suite 600, 400 State Ave., Kansas City, Kan., 66101-2410.

Various grades have been divided into American and National League sides. Readers who beat St. Louis Cardinal slugger Mark McGwire's record of 70 home runs will have their names placed on a Wall of Fame/Big Mac Land. The contest runs through the end of the school year.

Change of venue motion denied; appeal intended

By Scott Cousins
Staff writer

A motion to move an annexation lawsuit between the city of Madison and the St. Clair State's Attorney's office from St. Clair County to Madison County was denied earlier this week.

Madison City Attorney Casper Nighoghossian said Associate Judge Scott Mansfield ruled against the city's request for the change of venue, but he intends to appeal.

Nighoghossian said he plans to file a motion to vacate the ruling. If unsuccessful, he said the case would probably be appealed to the Illinois Fifth District Appellate Court in Mt. Vernon.

The lawsuit is part of the legal battle and political maneuvering over the former village of National City and related properties.

The lawsuit could give Fairmont City an uncontested avenue to annex the St. Louis National Stockyards and could stall further annexation by Madison. However, if Madison wins, it would block Fairmont City from further annexations.

Expressed a willingness to negotiate a deal giving Fairmont City a clear path to the stockyards, but Fairmont City officials have declined.

The suit, which alleges that eight annexations by the city of Madison between Feb. 13, 1996, and June 2, 1998, are illegal because the properties were not contiguous to Madison was filed by the St. Clair County State's Attorney's office.

Some of the disputed property includes overlapping annexations by Fairmont City.

Nighoghossian argued that that because Madison City Hall is located in Madison County, and that votes on the annexations in question took place in Madison County, that the suit should be transferred to the 3rd Circuit.

In his motion, Nighoghossian said that the Illinois Code of Civil Procedure said that "actions against a municipal governmental corporation must be brought against it in the county in which its principal office is held."

Nighoghossian gave members of the Madison City Council an update on the lawsuit during an executive session at Tuesday's City Council meeting.

Madison awaiting purchase outcome

By Scott Cousins
Staff writer

Madison city officials are still waiting for word on the purchase of land to be used as storage for the Street Department.

On Tuesday, Mayor John Hamm said he was still waiting for word from the owners of the old Save-Mor grocery store at 1508 Third St.

In return for the property, the city has offered to take care of outstanding property taxes, sewer and trash bills.

In reality, the city would pay very little for the property. The city would write off the trash bill and its portion of the property tax while other taxing bodies would agree to forgive the other outstanding tax and sewer debt.

He said the cost of demolition was about $4,000, which will be eventually be paid by Madison County Community Development.

The building had been destroyed in a fire and was recently demolished by the city.

Hamm said he wants the property, which is located next to the Street Department's garage, to store road salt and other materials.

The council also approved an ordinance allowing the city to begin offering trash service to Madison County Housing Authority property.

That property was excluded in the city's original trash service because it could not handle commercial accounts, but the city has expanded trash collection to include commercial customers.

Metro-East libraries share federal assistance money

By Scott Cousins
Staff writer

Five public libraries and schools in the Metro-East area will split approximately $87,000 of $900,000 in recently awarded federal grants.

The Venice Public Library, Belleville Area College, the East St. Louis Public Library, the Roxana School District and Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville are among 24 agencies across the state to share the funds, distributed by the Illinois Secretary of State's office through the federal Library Services and Technology Act.

The largest grant was $197,500 for Northern Illinois University in DeKalb.

The LSTA program replaced the federal Library Service and Construction Act program, which ended last year. The LSTA provided funding to promote technological improvements, create programs for students and improve local library services.

Statewide, grants range from $1,150 to $197,500 and will fund projects ranging from the expansion and development of library collections to new approaches in providing library services.

The biggest local winner is SIUE, which will receive $39,200.

Belleville Area College is receiving $14,000. Other grants include: Venice Public Library — $2,504; Roxana School District — $14,700; and East St. Louis Public Library — $27,500.

Scott AFB group helping with Mitch disaster relief

By Larry Ingram
Staff writer

Air Mobility Command (AMC) aircraft and personnel are working to bring relief to those in Central America who have been devastated by Hurricane Mitch.

The AMC logistics support group is at Scott Air Force Base in Belleville.

Hurricane Mitch ripped through the Central America region two weeks ago, killing more than 10,000 people. Millions have been left homeless by the devastation.

"The logistics support crews have moved more than 1,000 tons of equipment including bulldozers and helicopters to Soto Cano Air Base, Honduras, aboard C-5, C-17 and C-141 aircraft."

"As of today (Monday), 25 missions have been flown," said Air Force Public Affairs Specialist Matt Tulis. "Another six are scheduled in the next 48 hours."

There is an ongoing need for the support efforts that AMC provides by organizing the transport relief effort, said AMC Air Force Lt. Jim Fuchs.

ABC command has transported more than 500 support personnel for the relief effort.

The logistics support crews have moved more than 1,000 tons of equipment including bulldozers and helicopters to Soto Cano Air Base, Honduras, aboard C-5, C-17 and C-141 aircraft.

Mobility aircrews from Charleston Air Force Base, S.C., Dover AFB, Del., McChord AFB, Wash., and Travis AFB, Calif., have been involved in the relief transport effort.

The bases have flown 18 missions to the region.

Personnel have been transported from Fort Bragg, N.C., and Hunter Army Airfield, Ga., to the Honduran air base.

The aircraft are hauling water, food, blankets and other humanitarian supplies to Central America for the Office of Foreign Disaster Relief.

Ship passing through

Some 36 people waited recently for the World War II-era ship LSM 45 to pass through Granite City Lock and Dam 27 on its way to Omaha, Neb., where it will be the main attraction of a military park.

Pontoon

"They had it all over the dam park," Wilson said. "It was addressed to me. I turned it over to Keith and he handled it."

The problem stems from a long-standing conflict between the village and the Federal Emergency Management Agency over violations of the 100-year floodplain.

About a dozen properties in the village do not meet federal floodplain elevation requirements.

The problems stem from improper enforcement of village ordinances dealing with permits and flood elevations prior to 1993. The problems were reportedly discovered after flooding that year.

At the Oct. 27 Village Board meeting, residents of the Quality Beach Mobile Home Park questioned the board on the status of the mobile homes in violation.

Those mobile homes are between one-half and 1½ feet below the required elevation of 417 feet above sea level.

Several occupants of affected homes told village officials that they have been told they cannot sell or trade their mobile homes because of the elevation problems and have also been told that they could lose federal flood insurance.

Village officials told the residents that as far as the village and FEMA was concerned, they could sell their homes. However, they were told that the owner of the mobile home park might place additional restrictions on the sale or transfer of homes not related to the water-level problem.

At the time, Trustee Bob Vincent told residents that they were in constant contact with FEMA and that everything was being worked out.

Base

In the process, other military commands are sought to use the base, but so far, Pennekamp said, no alternative host command has been found since the ROE began during the summer.

"There is a strong likelihood that the military presence at Mel Price will be reduced," he said, but that does not mean the base will close. There are a host of scenarios that can happen, he said.

Possible future uses — if the military decides most or all of the base is no longer needed and no Department of Defense agency wants to set up operations here — include expansion of the Tri-Cities Area Port District or an industrial park.

"The question (posed) to me is, do we really want to go on and work very hard to maintain that property as a military installation?" he said. "The Tri-Cities area has incredible assets and even in the ROE process... there are possibilities for a variety of uses."

All of these questions are ones the community as a whole needs to answer, he said, to determine what is in the best interests of the Tri-Cities area for the base.

Madison County Board Chairman Rudy Papa will meet with the mayors of Granite City, Venice and Madison to come up with a unified vision for the property, Pennekamp said. The three cities along with the county have jurisdiction over the property.

At the same time, Dan Brown, chairman of the Rotary Community Action Prayer Breakfasts, said he will be calling leaders in the next few days to form a citizens' committee.

"We don't just want political entities involved," said Mayor Ron Selph. "We want non-partisan people involved in the process too, because this could get very nasty."

He said anyone — from Granite City, Mitchell and elsewhere in the county who wants to be involved should do so to help create a unified vision.

"I know (that) as economic development director for Granite City, we'd love to have the entire Melvin Price Center in Granite City, but that isn't going to happen. Madison would love to have it in Madison but that isn't going to happen," Brown said.

"I think Granite City and all the cities... will have to take a long, cold realistic look at the situation and come up with a solution so we can go forward in a unified fashion," he said.

Disabled group plans meetings

By Sanford J. Schmidt

Officials of IMPACT said they soon will try again to convince Madison County to review plans for building permits for commercial construction in unincorporated areas.

"We are going to try and convince them once again to do the same thing we've been talking about for the last 10 years," said Dick Goodwin, IMPACT executive director. The organization is an advocacy group for people with disabilities. Some of its staff members review plans for compliance with the Americans with Disabilities Act in communities such as Alton and Edwardsville.

But Joe Parente, the county building, housing and zoning supervisor, said county personnel are capable of reviewing the plans for compliance with the Americans with Disabilities Act.

The number of commercial building permits issued by the county is small, he said, and he would hesitate to slow the approval process by submitting plans to IMPACT for review.

"Only about 2 percent of the building permits we issue are for commercial property," he said.

intense heat and humidity, and several race fans died of heat-related heart attacks.

The track was relaid at a higher temperature using a different asphalt mixture, and had the rest of the winter to cure.

Both fall races went off smoothly this year.

By holding the races under lights in July and August, that also opens up the track for more major events in the fall.

Wolter also said that instead of an overhead bridge on the back straightaway, they are planning to place a pedestrian/vehicle tunnel under the track near the present Firestone bridge.

"We'll have to do some serious engineering to get the tunnel in," he said.

They had originally planned to use the bridge because of low-water tables.

The rapid expansion of the track has been fueled by the merger of Grand Prix Association of Long Beach, GIR's parent company, and Dover Downs Entertainment Inc.

Dover Downs owns and operates a multipurpose entertainment complex conducting NASCAR and Indy Racing League (IRL) auto racing, harness horse racing, parimutual wagering on simulcast harness and thoroughbred horse races, and video slot machines in Delaware. The company also owns and operates Nashville Speedway USA, located at the Tennessee State Fairgrounds in Nashville.

GPALB owns and operates the Toyota Grand Prix of Long Beach, the annual CART race on the streets of Long Beach, Calif.; Gateway International Raceway in Madison; and Memphis Motorsports Park.

Madison city officials are also hoping to benefit from increased development at the track.

Mayor John Hamm said he was pleased to hear that the track would be lighted next year, because the city will receive income from its utility tax.

The city also receives a per ticket "entertainment tax." Next year that tax will jump to $1 from 60 cents per ticket. The city receives sales tax on all items sold in the raceway and also charges licensing and inspection fees for businesses and tents during races.

Hamm said he is also hoping the area part of the city's new $100 million district — would start to benefit from the hotel construction boom sparked by the raceway and other area developments.

Web site promotes gas safety

A quiz on carbon monoxide safety at Illinois Power's Power of Education web site (www.illinoispower.com) offers students a chance to win one of 50 Kodak Max one-time-use cameras.

While taking the quiz, students will learn the symptoms of carbon monoxide poisoning.

Students who attend elementary or high school in Illinois Power's service territory are eligible to participate.

Five new channels, Internet on horizon

By Paul Mackie
Staff writer

Five new channels and several technological advances will highlight a new era for Charter Communications customers.

The Madison County Board's Legislative Committee held a public hearing recently on Charter's request for approval of a franchise agreement for rural and unincorporated areas.

No citizens attended the hearing, and the committee is expected to recommend approval of the agreement to the full County Board.

Each municipality in the county is expected to reach similar agreements soon. Glen Carbon's agreement is completed and Edwardsville's isn't far behind.

Investor Paul Allen announced a deal to acquire Charter in a $4.5 billion transaction in July. Allen is a co-founder of Microsoft and owns the NFL's Seattle Seahawks and NBA's Portland Trail Blazers, among other interests.

"He clearly has enough financial backing to make this work and to keep it going," County Administrator James Monday said. "Plus, he's keeping everybody in place within the local structure."

In fact, additional employees might be required when Charter increases its services, officials said. The Maryville office is being expanded as well, Illinois system general manager Darrel Gebert said.

Committee members, Monday and Gebert said Allen's purchase will make the following advances possible:

Five new channels will be added by the end of this month to expanded basic cable. The Golf Channel was the only channel of those five announced Thursday. Granite City-area subscribers have also seen the addition of The Food Network and Comedy Central recently, however. Also slated to appear, according to company promotional announcements, are C-SPAN2, which features live U.S. Senate debates, and ZDTV, a network devoted to computers and the Internet.

Basic cable services are expected to expand to 22 channels early in 1999.

A fiber-optic "pathway" may connect the county's administrative offices downtown with its Health Department Building and other offices on Troy Road, creating a network of data communications.

The company will soon have the ability to issue stock and become publicly held.

Internet access will be available via cable television, without the use of a modem, Gebert said the service will go through a trial period before being launched commercially about Feb. 1.

Beverly Farm officials acknowledge delay in abuse reports

Staff report

Beverly Farm Foundation officials acknowledged amid growing criticism Friday that they waited too long to report apparent abuse at the home this week.

The delay could be grounds for regulatory action by the Illinois Department of Public Health.

"We were late," said Monte

Welker, Beverly Farm executive director. "I don't think we'll take issue that we had bad judgment."

Staff at Beverly Farm in Godfrey, a home for the mentally disabled, discovered Nov. 9 that five residents had broken big toes. All five were severely disabled residents from the same building.

Later in the week, three other residents were treated for injured feet.

Administrative officials at the home waited until Thursday to report the problem to the state.

Welker said Thursday that the home had not notified the state at that time.

Later in the day, Welker said he had alerted the Madison County Sheriff's Department and state health officials.

"In no way, shape or form were we trying to hide anything," Welker said. "We were trying to conduct our own investigation."

Sheriff's detectives and state inspectors have taken over the investigation. No arrests were made as of Friday evening.

The reporting delay was criticized by the state, Sheriff Bob Churchich and Beverly Farm's largest union, the American Federation of State, County and Municipal Employees.

Steve Orr, state director of long-term care, said serious injuries must be reported within 24 hours of discovery.

"Any incident that causes or is likely to cause injury or trauma to a patient is to be reported," Orr said.

He said the home itself is not expected to begin an investigation before reporting an injury.

Orr said state inspectors would review the injured residents' X-rays and medical reports from Alton Memorial Hospital. The investigation may take weeks to complete. The reporting delay will be part of the state inquiry.

"If we determine a violation occurred, we will write up the home and classify the incident according to severity," Orr said.

Churchich said the delay could cost his detectives valuable time.

Burning leaves creates havoc with asthma sufferers

It's that wonderful time of the year again when you could go outside and enjoy all of nature's glory.

The air is crisp and trees are presenting their fall colors. You could be frolicking in the fall sunshine like a kid on the first day of summer vacation. The only problem is that your neighbor is burning a mountain of leaves, sending up a column of smoke dense enough to choke The Marlboro Man.

Knowing that the smoke can trigger your next asthma attack, you stay in your home, close all the windows and wait for the smoke to subside.

Leaf burning is outlawed or restricted in many communities and Dave Sheppard, a respiratory care practitioner at St. Elizabeth Medical Center in Granite City, feels it should be outlawed everywhere.

"It's the asthmatics that are really affected by it," Sheppard said. "Let's face it, the air quality here is not the greatest, for many reasons. When you out that on top of the leaf burning, you're talking about a serious problem."

According to Sheppard, the change of seasons and change of weather is always a problem for people with a lung disease, particularly at this time of year when the conditions are not consistent.

"It takes a lung patient about three or four days to adjust to a weather change," he said. "And because of that, autumn isn't real good time, until they get some constant weather."

Asthma is really affected by it (leaf burning)," Sheppard added. "Many are diagnosed in the autumn because of their reaction to the leaf smoke. If you have a lung disease and you're an active person, you shouldn't be restricted to your house because someone is burning leaves. There's nothing more scary than an asthma attack."

The smoke generated by burning leaves not only affects those with illnesses. According to Dan McDowell, manager of Pulmonary Services at St. Elizabeth's, "The body uses hemoglobin to carry oxygen from the lungs to other tissues for the body. The hemoglobin has a greater affinity for carbon monoxide than it does for oxygen, which means that if you're breathing in smoke, oxygen can't get into your bloodstream as efficiently as it should. The result is that all systems, tissues and organs, operate less effectively."

McDowell also says that many people burn leaves that are not totally dry. "This results in the mold that may be present on the leaves being burned and released into the air," McDowell said. "This affects allergy sufferers and anyone with sinus problems."

McDowell added that St. Elizabeth Medical Center is participating in a survey related to leaf burning. The results of the survey will be used to show what problems are created by leaf burning. The findings will be presented to cities that lack yard waste burning ordinances.

"People like to open their windows at this time of year," Sheppard said. "A family should not have to worry about somebody breathing smoke and having a full-blown asthma attack. Even if you have designated days to burn leaves, you are still restricting somebody to their house on those days."

"The information is out there and the complaints are too," Sheppard added. "People want to burn but don't understand about the 5-year-old girl who's in the emergency room because she got a whiff of leaf smoke. They think that everybody loves the smell of burning leaves and many do, unless they have a lung problem."

Fox program prepares segment about rapist

By Nicole Vaughn
Staff writer

A crew from the criminal-hunting Fox television show "America's Most Wanted: America Fights Back" was taping in Collinsville Monday morning for a segment on the suspected South Side Rapist. Collinsville Police Detective Sgt. Dave Roth said he hopes the segment, slated for broadcast Saturday night (locally on KTVI-TV, the Fox-owned station in St. Louis), won't be on television.

"Hopefully it won't be aired and he'll already be caught by Saturday," Roth said of suspect Dennis Rabbitt.

"America's Most Wanted" featured a 15-second segment on Rabbitt last weekend. That brief appearance yielded a handful of leads, Roth said. Rabbitt, 42, of Cedar Hill, Mo., now faces more than 40 criminal charges stemming from a string of attacks on women in the St. Louis area in the past decade. Collinsville was just one of the communities the crew featured in the report.

St. Louis city and County as well as St. Charles, Mo., and High Ridge, Mo., were sites for some of the attacks. A nationwide manhunt is under way for Rabbitt, who also is suspected of similar attacks in Chicago and Las Vegas.

One of the criminal counts issued last week came from Madison County State's Attorney Bill Haine in the Feb. 5, 1995, attack of a Collinsville woman. The 34-year-old woman was assaulted by a gunman while her son slept in the next room.

While DNA confirmed a second Collinsville case as well as another assault in Troy as crimes of the "South Side Rapist," charges have not been filed in those incidents.

Roth said the other Collinsville case likely will not be pursued as the victim, an elderly woman, has died since the attack occurred in October 1994.

"Those are the ones that were reported and confirmed," Roth said. "We suspect him of several others."

Roth said Collinsville police only recently learned of a 1992 Fairmont City case involving Rabbitt. In that case, Rabbitt broke into the home of an elderly woman and assaulted her.

"She had awoken to him having his hand over her mouth," Roth said. "He was wearing socks on his hands. We have a picture of him with them on."

Roth said the attack was interrupted by the woman's son, who chased and then beat Rabbitt until police arrived. He was convicted on a burglary charge in St. Clair County and served less than a year in jail.

Herndon leaves Madison County judicial position

By Dennis Grubaugh
Staff writer

The only order in Judge David Herndon's courtroom Friday was the line of people waiting to shake his hand.

A crowd of well-wishers sent Herndon off in style during his last day as an associate circuit judge in Madison County. On Monday, he started a new career as judge in the U.S. District Court, Southern District of Illinois, in East St. Louis.

Herndon, of East Alton, officially will be sworn in Nov. 30 but will use the interim time to adjust to a new staff, new procedures and a different kind of caseload.

Herndon, 45, comes well-equipped: Friends say he is as knowledgeable of the law as anyone they've met.

"I knew when I met him that he was someone destined for great things," bailiff Jim Simonds said.

"He's smart," bailiff Sam Zangori added. "I remember him when he was a teen-ager at Roxana High School and I was on the Board of Education."

Fellow judge Nicholas Byron described him as "well-rounded, very fair, very diligent, and he studies the law."

Herndon's promotion to the federal bench is the first for Madison County since Paul Riley made a similar move from the Edwardsville courthouse in 1994.

Herndon fills a vacancy open since 1992 and will join six other judges in the Southern District, including James Foreman, a senior judge whom Herndon said he met while in college.

Herndon said he knows he will be in good company and is a little in awe of the prospects. "There's something about walking into federal court. You know there's some serious business there," he said. "Not that it's not serious here, but there's an aura about it."

Lasters take memorable Caribbean vacation cruise

Fred and Phyllis Laster have returned home from a trip to San Juan, Puerto Rico. They boarded the Carnival cruise ship Fascination on Oct. 17.

The first port of call was at St. Thomas, Virgin Islands, where they visited shops of Charlotte Amalie and went browsing under the sea with the brilliantly colored fish. On Monday they visited the French-Dutch island of St. Maarten, noted for its Dutch chocolate and French perfume.

Dominica, in the West Indies, has 365 rivers that cascade down the island's three mountain ranges to create settings like the Emerald Pool Grotto, which they viewed on Tuesday.

On Wednesday, in Barbados, the subterranean stream passages of Harrison's Cave was one of the many attractions, and they also enjoyed the British traditional tea and a cricket match.

They visited the French island of Martinique, with its secluded beaches, and went shopping and sightseeing in the capital, Fort-de-France, on Thursday. Friday was spent on the Coconut Grove Bar and Grill in the Palace Lounge show-room.

They returned to San Juan and then home on Saturday.

Donna Shearer is the Madison County Board of Education's BCFHS representative. She will take Christmas presents to the Carmi Baptist Children's Home on Dec. 4.

If your church, Sunday School class, mission or Bible study group is sponsoring a child this Christmas, your gift should be taken to Calvary Baptist Church in Edwardsville, or drop them off at the MCBA office by Dec. 3 if you cannot get them to Edwardsville.

The November meeting of the Ruth Sunday School Class of Calvary Baptist Church was held in the Fellowship Hall. Prayer requests were taken, followed by prayer given by Dorothy Watkins.

Lois Bivens gave a devotion on "Hands." The secretary report was given by Ruth Dagon and the treasury report given by Pat Wallis.

Chair Dorothy Watkins reported sending 10 mail-in cards.

The Christmas party will be at 6:30 p.m. Dec. 17 in the church Fellowship hall for the Adult Four Department. Phyllis Knight will be selling tickets.

Games were played, with prizes going to Irene Badgett, Lois Bivens, Delores Carson and Dorothy Watkins.

Pat Wallis, hostess, served refreshments to the above and Bernice Boyer, Virginia Bueschel and Norma Ross.

Paul and Edna Bennett and great-granddaughter Jordan Weathers spent the weekend in Dover, Tenn., visiting Edna's dad, Roy Whitehead and his wife, Alberta.

The Bunco Club was hosted by Robbie Wilson Nov. 3 in her home. Members attending were Linda Arnold, Margaret Busky, Edna Bennett, Melody Bettis, Kathy Feldt, Cindy Naughton, Sally Kirksey and Debbie Vincent.

Cynthia Lambird and Scott Alan Hedger were married Sept. 12 at Pontoon Baptist Church by the Rev. Alan Redfern. The bride is the daughter of James and Nancy Bush of Collinsville and the groom is the son of Lovader and Nancy Hedger of Edwardsville.

The matron of honor was Julie Hedger of Collinsville, sister-in-law. The bridesmaids were Carla Hedger, Debbie Bush, Brenda Bush and Dana Greve.

Junior maids were Katie Hedger, Casey Lambird, Bree-Ann Hedger and Jennie Hedger. Miniature bridesmaids were Kaley Lambird and Mariah Hedger.

The best man was Jason Hedger of Collinsville, brother of the groom. The groomsmen were Joey Hedger, Kenneth Hedger, Michael Bush and James Bush III.

The flower girl was Amber Bush, niece and ring bearer was Joey Thomas, friend. The usher was Brian Echmann of Collinsville.

After wedding trip to Branson, Mo. the couple are making their home in Collinsville.

The bride is employed by Loew's in Fairview Heights and the groom is employed at L.H. Hedger and Sons Metal Co. Inc.

Now's the time to preparing the car now for winter weather.

Once conditions worsen, everyone tries to get their car into a garage, said Phil Linck, diagnostic clinic manager for AAA Emergency Road Service.

"What takes two days now will take two weeks once bad weather starts," he said. One of the first steps to winterizing cars is checking the cooling system.

If antifreeze is an equal mix of water and coolant, it will protect a vehicle's engine in temperatures as low as 30 degrees below zero, Linck said.

Pure antifreeze will cause the engine to overheat. "It's kind of like putting too many eggs in a cake," Linck said. Other car winterizing suggestions include checking the accelerator pump, automatic choke, electrical system, exhaust system, rear window defroster, brakes and hoses, tuning up the engine; cleaning and tightening battery cables; testing the battery for charge and fluid level; and changing the oil from 10-30 to 5-30 weight.

Two areas that are often overlooked are tire pressure and window washer fluid, Linck said.

"Make sure you have washer solvent in your washer jug. Don't mix it with water; otherwise, it's frozen as soon as you need it," he said.

He also warns against using wiper blades to take off windshield ice. "Buy an ice scraper — save the aggravation."

He said tires need at least 3/32-inch tread. The easiest way to test the depth of a tire tread is to insert a penny into the tread; if more than Lincoln's hairline is viewable, it's time for new tires. It's also important to keep the tire pressure at the manufacturer's suggested level.

"When it snows out, people are under the impression that you should let the air out," he said. "That's totally a myth. Keep the air pressure in there."

Wood River refinery targeted by group

The Wood River Refining Co.

emitted the largest amount of recognized carcinogens into the air in Madison County, according to a report by the Environmental Defense Fund. The group, based in New York, also stated that Madison County ranked in the top 20 percent of all counties in the country in emissions.

The group, using its web site, claimed benzene was the major toxic chemical involved in most cases.

"Information is power when it's put to use," said David Roe, an attorney with the group. "We're hoping to bring people together about chemical pollution issues in every affected community."

A representative for Wood River Refining Co., Tara Condon-Tullier, said she is suspicious of the group's intentions.

"I don't know where they're getting their information from. I'm not positive of what they consider a recognized carcinogen is," she said.

THE LAW AND YOU
By RICK REED
Attorney At Law

When an individual sustains an injury, it is often important to obtain a statement from an independent witness as to how the injury occurred. In many cases, such a statement will be the basis for an award of money damages to the injured party. Two recent cases will help illustrate the importance of an independent witness.

In one recent case, a sixteen year-old girl (the plaintiff) was driving her parent's car and was exiting from a shopping center. She was crossing over two lanes of northbound traffic with an intention of heading south in the opposite lanes. A woman (the witness) heading northbound stopped her car to allow the sixteen year-old girl to exit from the shopping center. The woman waved her out, and the young girl exited from the shopping center cautiously. Suddenly, in the inside northbound lane, another driver (the defendant) was speeding and struck the plaintiff's car.

Following the accident, the witness remained at the accident scene to describe for the police officer the excessive speed of the defendant. However, when the officer wrote up the report, he indicated in the narrative that there was failure to yield on the part of the plaintiff. No tickets were issued, but the way the officer wrote the report was very detrimental to the plaintiff, who sustained personal injuries to the accident.

The plaintiff obtained the services of an attorney, and the investigator for the law office contacted the witness. Ultimately, the independent witness signed a statement indicating that there was total liability on the part of the defendant due to her excessive speed when the collision occurred. This witness statement made all the difference in this case.

In another recent case, the plaintiff fell at a Laundromat in a puddle of water next to the washing machines. The manager of the laundromat indicated to the plaintiff that she had warned the owner of the laundromat several times that one of the machines leaked and that this was a hazardous situation. Once again, the injured plaintiff obtained the services of an attorney, and the attorney's investigator went to the accident scene to interview the manager of the laundromat. Ultimately, the manager signed a statement indicating that the hazardous condition had existed at this laundromat for several weeks before the accident. This statement was the basis of a substantial award in this case.

AROUND THE AREA

Here's what happened around the Metro-East in the past week:

East St. Louis Work to begin on hotel

City officials and Casino Queen representatives were scheduled to break ground Wednesday on a scaled-down version of a long-awaited hotel project.

Construction was scheduled to have started Feb. 1 on the $13 million, 150-room, seven-story hotel, but it was delayed by problems with financing and site selection, Casino Queen General Manager Craig Travers said.

When the city approved a tax increment financing agreement with the casino last November, the plan was for a $30 to $40-million, 215-room hotel. Financial problems apparently forced the casino to cut back the project's size.

City will emphasize minority hiring goals

East St. Louis' new affirmative action director is demanding that area contractors comply with the city's equal business opportunity ordinance.

The ordinance states that its purpose is to "mitigate the effects of past and present discrimination" by promoting equal opportunities for minority and female-owned businesses.

The ordinance established a committee to review projects and determine applicable goals for hiring minority and female-owned businesses. The city can withhold funding from projects if goals are not met.

Rodney G. Pace, who was appointed affirmative action director last month, said the ordinance applies to all projects in East St. Louis.

Centerville School picked for U.S. study

Centerville School is one of nine U.S. elementary schools selected for a federal study of academically successful schools that have a high percentage of low-income students.

Two researchers from the Charles A. Dana Center of the University of Texas at Austin visited the school Monday and Tuesday to interview staff and parents, review school records and observe classrooms.

Michael McClure, a program coordinator at the university, said the teams are looking at urban schools with large minority populations where test scores are at or above district or state averages.

Researchers looked at data since 1994, McClure said. They chose Centerville because its math scores on state achievement tests were above the state average, she said.

Metro-East

$275,000 goal for Tree of Lights

With a goal of $275,000, the Salvation Army Tree of Lights campaign officially kicked off this week.

More than 600 of the Salvation Army's traditional red kettles appeared throughout the Metro Area on Friday.

The kettles, one of the most visible aspects of the Tree of Lights fund-raising campaign, are operated by volunteers representing service clubs, businesses and other groups.

More than $775,000 was donated in the St. Louis area through the kettles last year, including two gold coins that were contributed anonymously. The money remains in the area to fund the programs and services the Army offers at Christmas and throughout the year.

Monroe County

Clergy comes out against possible Columbia casino

Saying it would "hurt the community morally, economically and with regard to quality of life," the Columbia Ministerial Alliance stated its unanimous objection Friday to locating a casino in Monroe County.

Waterloo ministers are also expected to mount opposition to any plans for a casino here.

A public meeting on the subject was to be held Tuesday at St. Paul's United Church of Christ to organize opposition to the casino.

Representatives of Isle of Capri Casinos of Biloxi, Miss., are reportedly considering some land along the Mississippi River near the Jefferson Barracks Bridge for a casino development. It would probably be located in Columbia, said Monroe County Chairman Bob Rippelmeyer.

Bellefonte

Main library reopens

Bellefonte residents and patrons celebrated the grand re-opening of the Bellefonte main library in downtown on Sunday with a performance by Phil Harmonics, punch and hors d'oeuvres.

The new library features new shadowless, low-reflective lighting designed for easier reading, a new upstairs children's area and renovated bathrooms that are handicapped accessible.

City leaders look to the library as a major enhancement to the downtown area. The library board has also purchased land adjacent to the library for future expansion.

Collinsville

Kahok Dancers founder dies

Collinsville lost one of its finest citizens Thursday night. Frank Acardi, 80, succumbed to cancer quietly at Anderson Hospital in Maryville with his family at his side.

A memorial service was held Tuesday at St. John Evangelical United Church of Christ, 307 W. Clay St., Collinsville. A reception followed the service in the church.

For the past 50 years, Acardi has befriended countless boys and girls as the director of the Kahok Dancers. He shared his knowledge of Native American folklore and taught the teens how to do beadwork, leather working and costuming.

He taught the art of storytelling through the dance steps, but he showed the dancers what was important in life by his own example.

Trooper's car hits deer

By Sanford J. Schmidt
Staff writer

A state trooper inadvertently demonstrated early Saturday the correct way to react when a deer bolts in front of your car.

The trooper hit a deer while driving his squad car west on Interstate 55-70 after the Illinois State Police generated a lot of publicity lately about the dangers of crashing into deer during mating season.

The front of the car was extensively damaged after the car, driven by a trooper from Edwardsville, hit the animal at 5:08 a.m. Saturday. The trooper was traveling westbound on routine patrol at 65 mph near the state police weigh station, officials said.

"It can happen to anybody," Trooper Ralph Timmins said.

He said the trooper reacted correctly by avoiding over-correcting.

"He drove straight into the deer, and he was not injured."

New alternative program may start

By Alene Hill
Staff writer

Some Unit 10 special education students, currently placed in private facilities, may soon be enrolled in a new alternative education program within the district.

The school board approved the program with probationary status for the 1999-2000 school year at its meeting Monday night.

"This will not totally eliminate the need for placing some students out-of-district," Superintendent Tom Fegley told the board. "But we may have more success with some students, with an intermediate placement."

Currently about 46 district students have been placed in private facilities because of profound physical or mental handicaps, or because of behavioral disorders, explained Rebecca Kolda, director of pupil personnel services.

Kolda said the new program approved by the board targets those students with behavioral disorders, who might be helped with a more structured environment, but may not need a private facility.

"Districts all over have been struggling with what to do with children with learning disabilities or emotional disorders who get in trouble and are suspended or expelled," she said. "We can't suspend any child more than 10 days who has been identified with a disability (without a provision for education)."

The goal of the program, she said, is for the student to eventually use the transition facility to "earn" their way back into a regular class setting.

The district currently has self-contained facilities at the elementary and junior high school level for students with behavioral disorders. The new program will be a self-contained room at Collinsville High School.

The program is expected to save money as compared to private placement of the students.

The district currently pays around $230,000 a year for students who are placed in a private facility, after state reimbursements, she said.

"With this program, we would save roughly $50,000 for 10 students."

season for the Warriors, who finished 3-20 last year.

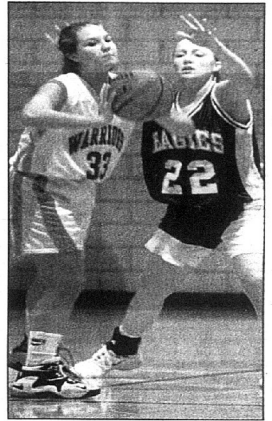

The Granite City girls basketball team won its season opener when junior Della Moore hit two free throws with 3.7 seconds to play in the fourth quarter Monday night, lifting Granite City to a 58-56 victory against Civic Memorial in the opening game of the Allon Tip Off Classic.

Moore earned the free throws by being fouled as she threw up a prayer in a crowd under the basket. "I just threw it up because I knew that she was coming at me," Moore said. "I was nervous, I was so nervous I was shaking real bad. Overall, I shot about 50 percent from the free-throw line, so it was a real tight shot."

Despite the percentages, Granite City coach John Moad was glad to have Moore at the line. "If I want anybody on the free-throw line in a time like that it's Della, because she's a gamer she wants to win," Moad said. "Della played a role in the first three quarters and then she got in there when we got into foul trouble in the fourth quarter. She works harder than anybody in practice and she really cares about winning, you can see it in her face. It was great to see her come through like that."

Junior guard Erika Todd, who led the Warriors with 15 points, appreciated Moore's role Monday night. "Once you come off the bench, there is a lot of pressure for you to pick up your team," Todd said. "We work hard in practice and everyone is part of the team. Everyone plays their part."

Granite City fall athletes honored

All-SWC squads announced; golf, soccer teams fared well

The Granite City golf team's solid season was recognized by coaches doing out fall honors for the Southwestern Conference.

The teams for football, girls volleyball, girls tennis, boys soccer, and boys and girls golf were announced this week.

Of those sports, one of Granite City's better performance this fall was in boys golf. Reflecting that success, the Warriors had two first-team selections, a second-team pick and two honorable mentions on the SWC all-conference golf squad.

The squad consisted of just 15 golfers, six on the first team. Granite City juniors Jeff Jorden and Brett Briggs were the first-team selections. They were joined on that squad by Edwardsville senior Matt Holmes, Belleville West junior C.J. Smith, Belleville East senior Brent Jackson and Alton's Nick Nash.

Warriors sophomore Brett Solberger was among the four golfers on the second team.

Granite City senior Matt Roustio

and junior Ty Suhre were honorable mention choices.

Briggs had the seventh-best average in the Metro East this fall at 39.1. Jorden was also in the top three at 39.3. Solberger, Roustio and Suhre all carried averages of 41.2 or better.

The Granite City boys soccer team had seven all-conference honors — three among the 11-player first team.

Seniors Dave Margrabe, Jared McMillan and keeper Brandon Williams were first-team honorees for the Warriors, who won the Southwestern Conference championship.

Granite City sophomore Mike Smith and senior Corey Winfield were named to the second team. Senior Steve Hendrickson and sophomore Phil Readhead were on the honorable mention list.

Other members of the soccer first team were Alton senior Nick Adams,

In football, the Granite City defense earned recognition from conference coaches. Senior lineman Anthony Randazzo was a first-team selection, as was senior punter Mike Simpson.

The lone defensive player on honorable mention was senior lineman Tony Komoroni.

The Granite City offense had five players — all at skill positions — on the honorable mention: junior receiver Kevin Elliott, reserve Simpson, senior receiver Jeremy Hunter, senior running back Brooks Narvaez and junior quarterback Zack May.

Edwardsville dominated the football honors after a perfect 9-0 regular season that included a Southwestern Conference championship.

The Tigers' first-team selections included senior center Matt Winezroski, senior tackle Matt Shell, junior running backs Travis Evans and Joe Bevis on offense; junior lineman Matt Turpoff, senior linebacker John Weimers, and senior back Derek Appel on defense.

Other skill position players named to the first team were Belleville East senior quarterback Tony Patterson, Collinsville senior running back Kory Kimbrell, East St. Louis senior receiver George Mumphard and Alton junior receiver Patrick Mays.

The Granite City girls tennis squad had two second-team selections — seniors Robin Slater and Amanda Pashea. Also, senior Jan Shanafelt made the honorable mention listing.

Granite City bounces back with victory

Warriors' Wilson scores goal in final period to defeat DuBourg 3-2

By Rick Broome

CLUB ICE HOCKEY

After Granite City lost the Mid-States Club Hockey Association opener to Affton (Mo.) 2-3 last week, the Warriors needed a better effort Monday night against St. Louis Bishop DuBourg.

They got it.

Warriors coach Dave Yurkovich called Monday's 3-2 victory against DuBourg "totally different than the first game."

Lenny Wilson scored the winning goal on a power play with 2 minutes 52 seconds remaining in the third period.

They were moving the puck around real well all night and they were collapsing down low," Yurkovich said. "Lenny took a shot from the point that went through a screen and beat the goalie through the five-hole."

Bob Scott and Ty Suhre assisted on the game-winning goal.

DuBourg scored twice in the first period, but Granite City answered on a goal by Joe Berg.

In the second period, Scott hooked up with linemates Suhre and Wilson to score a power-play goal that evened the score at 2-2.

The Warriors outshot the Cavaliers 47-25 for the game, 26-7 in the second period alone.

"When we weren't shooting in the corners, we were shooting at him. And when we made quality shots, he was making great saves," Yurkovich said. "We controlled the second period. We had four of five good chances in the period, but the kid in goal was playing real well."

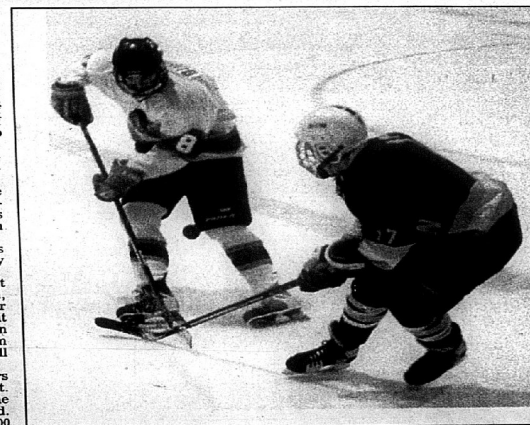

Granite City also had a solid performance on defense and from goaltender Matt Wojciechowski.

Matt Wojciechowski played well in the net," Yurkovich said. "He kept us in it when we were getting sloppy."

"We didn't do a good job of covering the crease. On their first goal, our defensemen were standing around and their kid was standing out in front alone. On the second one, they skated around our defense and went in alone. So there were a couple of defensive breakdowns."

"We want our kids to play the body more than the puck. Our offense played better defensively than they had in the first game, which helped our defense out. We backedchecked in the neutral zone, which helped us control the puck and keep it in their

East St. Louis adjusting in merger's wake

It was written in this column last spring that everyone should not jump to the conclusion that the merger this school year between Lincoln and East St. Louis Senior would create a super-power at the East St. Louis school on State Street.

Both Lincoln and East St. Louis Senior have had considerable success at the state level before the merger. Lincoln had been known as a powerhouse in girls and boys track and boys basketball. East St. Louis Senior had made a name for itself in football and boys track. Quite naturally, with the merger, it was assumed that the "new" school would dominate the state scene.

If the just-concluded football season is any indication, fans of East St. Louis should not prematurely reserve motel rooms in the Bloomington-Normal area for the state championship. If you'll remember, East St. Louis was rolling along this season before hitting a bump in the road, known as the Southwestern Conference. The Flyers proceeded to lose three straight games in the conference to Edwardsville, Belleville East and Collinsville. The Flyers finished fourth in the conference unheard of before the merger.

"It took us a while before we got going," East St. Louis athletic director Ted Daniels said. "The quarterback switch helped us down the stretch."

The Flyers did manage to make the playoffs, going further in the playoffs than any of their SWC brethren. The Flyers were bumped off by Gary Grove in the second round. Southwestern Conference champion Edwardsville and two other SWC teams, Belleville East and Collinsville, all went down in the first round. The Kahoks lost to St. Louis in a rematch in the playoffs.

Flyers fans will need to be patient. "Our program is still in its infancy," said Daniels, taking a realistic approach. "We're going to be good this year, but we'll be better next year. It's going to take some time to merge the students and also the coaching staffs."

What East St. Louis is going through might be akin to a merger in business. New bosses and employees are brought in, merging with the bosses and employees already in place. It takes time to get everyone in sync.

"The kids are actually doing a better job of adjusting to the merger than are the coaches and teachers," Daniels said. "Particularly, there's been resistance from the Lincoln side when their coaches were named head coaches. They were reluctant to bring in East St. Louis coaches already in staffs. The East St. Louis coaches, on the other hand, have Lincoln coaches on their staffs."

The East St. Louis School Board had no particular criteria in mind when the head coaches were named after the merger. Daniels said longevity wasn't a factor, given that long-time Lincoln football coach and athletic director Jimmy Adams was hired as a head coach or athletic director.

As the keeper of the athletic department, Daniels, who has been at East St. Louis Senior High since 1968, is pleased with the way things are going.

"The merger is going fairly well," he said. "A lot of the kids knew each other before the merger. The kids are getting along well. It was refreshing to see a situation like I had in one of my French classes when a couple of football players — one who went to Lincoln last year and the other who went to East St. Louis last year — cooperated with each other to complete an assignment."

Lost in the shuffle has been the addition of freshmen to East St. Louis. Previously, both East St. Louis and Lincoln had been three-year high schools.

"The addition of freshmen has worked out well, both academically and athletically," Daniels says.

Daniels said the physical plant at East St. Louis has been upgraded, including the gymnasium and locker rooms. Plans are in the works to put in a new gym floor, which had been damaged from water coming in from a leaky roof, and also to add softball and baseball fields on campus.

It probably will take several years to assess the situation at East St. Louis to see whether it becomes the super-power a lot of people predicted. East St. Louis' enrollment is at 2,300 after the merger. Other schools in Southwestern Illinois can match that enrollment, a barometer many people

Warriors slip in second half vs. Marquette

Explorers wear down Granite City with 43-23 spree after intermission

By Rick Broome
Staff writer

After winning its season-opener, Granite City dropped the second game of the season, 78-52 to Alton Marquette in the Alton Tip Off Classic.

The loss brought the Warriors' record to 1-1.

Marquette was the favorite to win the tournament, which also includes Civic Memorial and Alton.

Granite City concludes tournament play 6:30 p.m. tonight against Alton.

"That was a tough one," Granite City coach John Moad said. "Marquette is very good, very quick and athletic. It's hard for us to simulate that kind of speed in practice. I think they are going to be one of the best teams in the area."

The Warriors were only down by six (35-29) at halftime, but the Explorers pulled away in the second half. In the first 30 seconds of the third quarter, Marquette nailed a 3-pointer and a layup to increase their lead to 40-29.

Marquette went on to outscore the Warriors 21-12 in the period.

"The girls did a good job in the first half," Moad said. "I think maybe we just ran out of gas in the second half. It may have been something to do with the fact that we played back-to-back games to open the season."

Jan Shanafelt led the Warriors with 16 points while doing out five assists.

"That was as well as I've seen her play in the four years that she's been on the varsity team," Moad said. "She just took charge in the first half, taking the ball to the basket. If we get that kind of effort out of her every night, we are going to be hard for teams to handle. She knows that as a senior this is her last time through and she seems to be taking the responsibility on her shoulders. "Jessica Wallace had 10 points on 4-of-6 shooting. We have to get her the ball more than that. Debra Aaron had eight points and six rebounds. At times she played real well and at other times they took her out of the game with their speed.

"We didn't shoot the ball as well on Tuesday as we did against Civic Memorial. We turned the ball over 25 times and that is way too many. We need to cut that number in half."

"Offensively, we still put 52 points on the board. There are a lot of positives to take out of scoring 58 and 52 points in your first two games. We just need better team defense getting back. If we take better care of the ball you'll see the points jump up into the 60's. We just gave away too many possessions."

"These girls have been through the battles before. They know what they have to do."

went down a little bit in the second, but we came back, and with three seconds left we had a lot of confidence. I think it will be good for our season. It was a good win."

"We played extremely hard," Moad said. "We made some first-game mistakes, which I knew we would make. We threw the ball away quite a bit, we missed some free throws, but these girls played absolutely as hard as they could and their hard work paid off in the end."

Debra Aaron and Jan Shanafelt each scored 13 points for the Warriors and Jessica Wallace added 11.

"We shot the ball pretty well from the outside and our press worked," Moad said. "We set the tempo and I think we rattled their guards, especially early in the game."

"Sarah Luehmann came off the bench and gave us a huge effort in the second half. She gave us a huge lift, rebounding, defensively, effort-wise. We've really been on her in practice to work hard to get more playing time, and she was really kind of disappointing in practice. But this was great to see. We couldn't have asked anything more from her."

The Warriors' backcourt, led by Todd and Shanafelt, pressured Civic Memorial all over the court, causing turnovers. But in the first half, Todd had to sit briefly on the bench after slamming her knee on the floor.

"As far as our press goes, Erika is the key," Moad said. "She is the quickest girl on the court, I don't care who you put against her. It changes our tempo when she is not in the game."

"Actually we didn't do too much in practice with it," said Todd. "We just came out and it was all about athleticism."

We worked hard and we got what we wanted, we got a win."

The Warriors committed nine fouls in the first quarter, but stayed in the game thanks to their hot shooting and defensive pressure. They led by eight after three quarters, but had to survive Civic Memorial's rally to have the chance at the end.

"I can't say enough about our girls, they worked so hard," Moad said. "We couldn't have asked for a better way to start the season, to start turning this program around."

Moad saw some things his team has to work on. "We need to take care of the ball better," he said. "We have to press — that's our game. We have to have an up-tempo game. I think we have to get Debra Aaron into the game more. But this was a good start."

"I think we played really well," Moore said. "I'm really proud of us."

zone. It was a very good effort by everybody."

The Warriors did receive some bad news that soured their victory. Junior forward Jon Burns will be out five to six weeks with a wrist fracture suffered during a freak collision near the bench.

"It really caught him off-guard," Yurkovich said. "He was coming to the bench for a change, but the play started to come back down the court and he bumped into one of the DuBourg kids near the boards. He put up his hands to protect himself, to cushion the impact, and his wrist bent backwards."

Senior Greg Boyer is also going to miss at least two weeks with a jammed thumb. "I told the rest of the team that they were really going to have to step it up," Yurkovich said. "Jon is instrumental to this team's success. I told the younger kids that they were going to have to be ready to play."

"Donnie Dickerson, Ronnie

"We have about eight games ahead of us that we will have to play without Jon (Burns).... Those are division games that are important to our goal of winning the division."

Dave Yurkovich
Granite City Warriors coach

Burns and Justin King are all freshmen who will see some ice time. Sophomore Joe Berg will see a lot more action. He saw a lot of time at the conference level.

"We have about eight games ahead of us that we will have to play without Jon. We are going to have to play a hard, aggressive forecheck. Those are division games that are important to our goal of winning the division."

"It is going to be interesting to see if the young kids step up. It all depends on how well they play. We are going to work them hard. Somebody is going to have to take Jon's spot."

Granite City's next game is 7:15 p.m. Thursday in Granite City against division rival Pattonville (Mo.).

"We won the first game and tied the second against Pattonville last year," Yurkovich said. "In the first one, we played very physical early on and they took a lot of retaliatory penalties. They weren't able to come with that style of play and they lost their cool a little bit. In the second one, we got out to a big lead, 5-1, and sat back on our heels. We got overconfident and didn't finish them off and they came back to tie it up."

"The key is to get them off of their game early. We have to be disciplined and play physical and it will give us the advantage. We need the young kids to step up. Our seniors — Lenny Wilson, Scott Sarich and Mike Angle — need to have a big game. We need to play good defensively because they will have a strong offensive attack."

use when trying to predict athletic success. The enrollment is back where East St. Louis can be competitive. We need the interesting to see how long it will take to go through its present transition period before the Flyers can reach a comfort level and truly buy into the fact that they are now just one school representing the city. With cooperation, the city can again be known as a "City of Champions" as a new era starts in East St. Louis.

Venice-Madison Auxiliary holds meeting

Venice-Madison Unit 307, American Legion Auxiliary, held a meeting on Nov. 3 at the home of Dorothy Hinson in Madison. Juanita William, first vice president, was hostess and served 12 members refreshments.

The guest that evening was Nancy Paelitz, 22nd District president from Alton. Hoyce Pittenger, president, conducted the business meeting.

Mary Hellinger, Americanism Chairman, may conduct an essay contest. Donations were made to the department Americanism Fund, Americanism Youth Conference, Spirit of Youth Foundation (scholarship) and the National President's Special Project, which is the funds to build a World War II memorial.

Pauline Mersinger, Auxiliary Emergency Fund Chairman, collected for this fund. Norma Hillmer moved that the organization donate to the following children programs: American Legion Child Welfare Foundation for research, Children's Miracle Network, Children and Youth Fund for Christmas gifts for children in homes, and the Children and Youth Scholarship Fund. An $800 scholarship is awarded in the state for a student majoring in special education.

Dolores Weis, Community Service Chairman, announced bingo games at the Colonial Haven on Nov. 12 and Colonades on Nov. 19.

Dorothy Hinson, Bylaws Chairman, reported sending a copy to the department for Unit Bylaws.

Dot Hinson, Junior Advisor, reported the juniors held a meeting on Friday, Oct. 23.

They made 25 tray favors for the Alton Mental Health Center.

Norma Hillmer, Membership Chairman, reported 73 members have paid their fees.

Dolores Weis moved the organization send a donation to the Department Nurses Scholars Fund. The Egyptian Past Presidents Club meeting will be Nov. 22 in Carbondale.

Mary Ballentine, co-chairman for VA and R, sent cards to 10 members.

Dot Hinson, co-chairman for VA and R, announced the unit will do bedside visits at John Cochran VA Hospital on Nov. 19. There are plans to serve cupcakes, bananas and fruit drinks to patients.

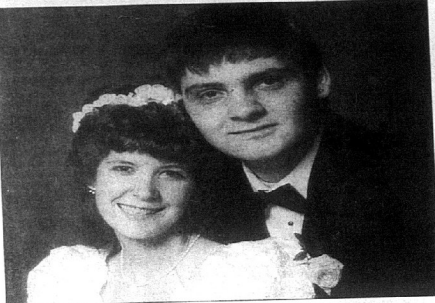

Several members plan to help decorate Christmas trees in the wards at John Cochran VA Hospital at 9 a.m. Nov. 24.

Donations were made to the Fisher House program, the Auxiliary Six Point Program, cigarette fund and stamp fund. These are VA and R programs.

Bette Nugent, National Security Chairman, asked if everyone have voted, and all did. Donations were made to the Department National Security Fund, to the USO Centers (requested St. Louis) and the American Legion District Meeting held in Alton on Oct. 26.

District president Paelitz gave some remarks about the Caravan and the Auxiliary programs. She was presented with a gift. She also presented unit president Pittenger with a desk flag to remember her visit to our unit.

The attendance prize was won by Joyce Pittenger.

Pieces of church history

Show displays
quilters' work

Quilts showing First Presbyterian Church's four buildings were on display Friday and Saturday at a quilt show. They were created in honor of the church's 175th anniversary.

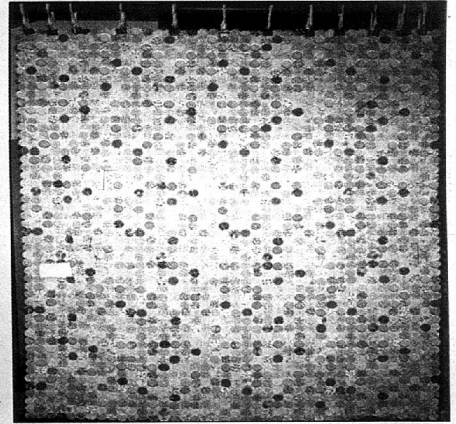

Above, Susan Bender, right, shows a quilt she created to Virginia Dellamano. Both women are from Collinsville. At right, the Presbyterian Quilters designed this quilt to resemble the large window in the 1884 church building. It also was created for the church's 175th anniversary.

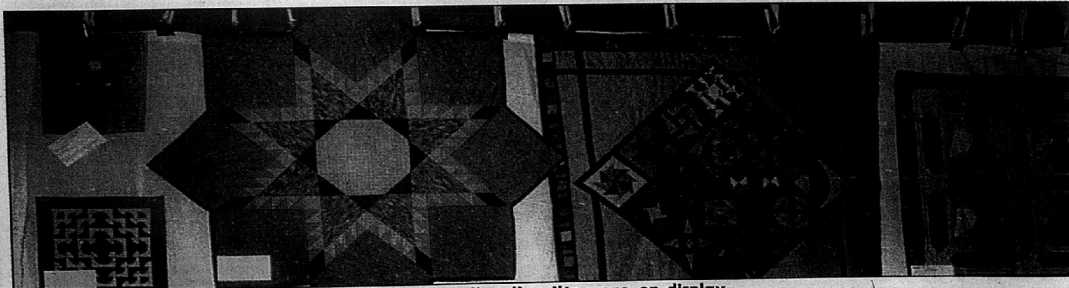

Susan Bender and Mary Dellamano created this quilt for the church for Christmas.

Collinsville resident Carl Gerfen's "Overall Sam Quilt" was made by his sister, Eleanore Earhart.

This "Yo-yo Quilt" made by Joan Botkin was one of 125 quilts on display at the church.

Several small wall quilts were on display.

Get your home ready for winter

What do your car and your house have in common? First, there is a motor at the heart of each, with moving parts, belts, filters and lubricants that need to be checked before winter hits. Second, the odds of a breakdown inevitably seem related to how lousy the weather is, how little time you have to deal with it, and how much the repair bill will hurt.

So, take action. Use this basic heating-system checklist from the Perfect Climate system experts at Honeywell to give your home a simple pre-winter tune-up.

1. Have your central heating system professionally cleaned and serviced. It only needs these services once a year under normal conditions — but it needs to be done.
2. Put in a new furnace filter or wash the cells on a whole-house electronic air cleaner before the heating season begins. Repeat the process at least once every three months, or more often if necessary. This is as vital as regular oil and filter changes for

3. Replace or clean your whole-house humidifier pad. Most new models use replaceable pads. Clean the water tube opening to remove any sediment buildup. Turn on the water supply to the humidifier.

4. If you heat with LP gas or fuel oil, check to see that the tank is filled before the heating season begins. Call your fuel supplier to arrange for delivery.

5. If you have a heat pump, clean leaves and debris away from the outdoor unit.
6. Move the thermostat system selector switch from the "cooling" to the "heating" position. If your central heating/cooling system has automatic changeover, leave the system switch in the "auto" position.

7. If you don't have a programmable (setback) thermostat, get one. If you use the programming feature, this kind of thermostat can help knock 16 percent to 33 percent off your annual heating and cooling bills. With older models, you may need to change the batteries and adjust the setbacks for the change to daylight-saving time. A programmable thermostat will save time and trouble — it requires no batteries and adjusts automatically to changes in seasons.

8. You can increase your contribution to conserving energy and protecting the environment when you use 8- to 10-degree setbacks on your thermostat for the daily periods in your home when everyone is asleep or away. Once it's programmed, a setback thermostat will do this automatically. If you don't have one, try to remember to do it manually before you leave for the day and when you go to bed.

For safety's sake, always call for professional service if there is a problem with your heating/cooling system. For the name and phone number of a qualified heating and cooling contractor in your area, or for free consumer information on the wide selection of Honeywell Perfect Climate systems and products for more comfortable, convenient and energy-efficient homes, call 1-800-877-0 ext. 7120.

AHA holiday cards on sale

The American Heart Association invites you to help fight our nation's No. 1 killer — cardiovascular disease and stroke — by sending your holiday message with a wish from the heart.

This year's 5 5/8-by-7 7/8 holiday card is designed as a keepsake for years to come. The card's snowflake design, accented by a small red foil heart, features a detachable bookmark with ribbon that serves as a reminder to lead a heart-healthy life.

The words, "Peace, Hope and Love" are printed in gold on the front of the bookmark with AHA healthy-heart tips on the back. The card's inside verse also is printed in gold. Personalized name and addresses will be printed in red.

Holiday cards are available in packs of 25. The cards and envelopes can both be imprinted with your name or your company's name and address. A box of 25 costs $31.50, with an additional $7.80 imprinting cost for the cards or envelopes.

Art auction tonight at Sunset Hills

By Sanford J. Schmidt
Staff writer

Fine art patrons will participate in the fine art of fund-raising at an auction at 6:30 tonight at Sunset Hills Country Club in Edwardsville. The faculty, staff and students at Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville and a community group called Friends of Art sponsor the affair each year.

"The works are donated by local artists, faculty, staff and students. We will have everything you can imagine," said Dianne Lynch, office manager for the SIUE art and design department.

The preview will be 6:30 p.m., and the auction will be at 7 p.m.

Last year, all the 225 pieces sold, although some brought as little as $5, Lynch said, and some as much as $1,000.

There also will be a silent auction for smaller pieces, such as jewelry.

The auction last year raised $18,000 for scholarships for SIUE art students and fees for visiting artists.

The department has an enrollment of 200 majors, Lynch said.

Admission is $2 for non-students.

"We will have some beautiful pieces, including glass, ceramics, paintings and sculpture," Lynch said.

Tamburitzans bring ethnic music to life

Duquesne University troupe to perform here Saturday

By Scott Cousins
Staff writer

It might be a Macedonian Gypsy dance from Greece, panpipes from Romania or intricately embroidered costumes from throughout Eastern Europe — all are part of the show the Tamburitzans will be putting on this weekend.

And for Norma Belcoff of Madison — a member of the troupe from 1983 to 1987 — it will be hard to stay in her seat.

The troupe, composed of about 40 students from Duquesne University in Pittsburgh, will bring its exuberant renditions of Eastern European folk songs and dance to a sold-out crowd at Granite City High School Auditorium, 3101 Madison Ave., Granite City, at 7 p.m. Saturday.

Proceeds from the concert help fund scholarships for students attending Belleville Area College's Granite City Campus.

The performance includes music, singing and dance from throughout Eastern Europe.

The Tamburitzans — started in 1937 — present one of the longest-running live stage shows in North America; the group performs about 80 shows annually. The group takes its name from an Eastern European stringed instrument called the tamburitza.

Most of the group's performers started in other ethnic performing groups in their own communities or have been performing arts students since early childhood. During their senior year in high school, applicants audition for a spot in the ensemble.

Belcoff said her parents — both Macedonian — took her and her sister to see the Tamburitzans when she was a little girl.

"When it was time to start looking at colleges, I thought I'd audition and give it a try," she said.

After being chosen, she attended a six-week training camp, then began performing.

"To try and explain it...it was an incredible experience," she said. "It was an incredible way to get a college education."

Belcoff said she performed in places ranging from Butte, Mont. — "where they shut the town down" — to a performance for United Nations officials at the Kennedy Center in New York.

Performing the Dances of Azerbaijan are members of the Tamburitzans of Duquesne University.

She said there is more to the production than just what's on the stage.

"People see the two-hour production on stage, but there is so much more," she said. "You not only have to be talented, you have to have the ability to pick things up quickly."

Today, she said her years with the Tamburitzans have given her a better appreciation of what goes on behind the scenes.

She also said watching the group can be difficult at times.

"I do everything I can to keep myself in my seat," she said.

Richard Hunt sculpture dedicated at SIUE

By Steve Whitworth
Staff writer

A large-scale abstract sculpture was dedicated Monday at the entrance to Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville's University Park, thanks to the generosity of a retired Quincy businessman.

The ceremony formally dedicating "Large Natural Form 1," by Richard Hunt, was attended by Southern Illinois University Edwardsville Chancellor David Werner and other university officials.

"If I hadn't decided to sell my house, this might not be here yet," said the donor,

Quincy man donates abstract piece to university

George Irwin, drawing laughter from those attending the ceremony.

Irwin, 77, explained that he recently sold his house in Quincy because he was tired of taking care of the large home, which had 20 rooms and 7½ bathrooms. He then moved into the old carriage house across his driveway, which has only seven rooms and 2½ baths.

"Large Natural Form 1" had been displayed in Irwin's yard. His will had provided for it to be donated to SIUE following his death, but with the sale of the house he decided now was the perfect time to give the sculpture to the university. "It was the only large outdoor piece I had," Irwin said.

During his remarks, Werner quoted Hunt as saying, "One of the central themes of my work is the reconciliation of the organic and the industrial."

The SIUE chancellor said University Park also is an example of such a reconciliation.

Irwin commissioned the sculpture in 1971 from Hunt. It was the first large piece created by Hunt, now one of the most acclaimed artists from Illinois.

Hunt, who is black and was born in Chicago, has been cited as one of the most influential artists of this century. Some of his works are featured in the collections of New York's Museum of Modern Art and the Metropolitan Museum of Art; the Art Institute of Chicago; and the Hirschhorn Museum and Sculpture Garden in Washington, D.C.

His works also may be seen at Laumeier Sculpture Park in south St. Louis County.

Hunt's sculpture now stands at the west entrance to University Park from University Drive. The two-ton piece is plated with Cor-ten steel, which builds up its own protective outer layer so it doesn't become rusted.

Irwin was in his family's wholesale paper and air compressor businesses. He has been involved in a number of art activities, including serving as founder and conductor of the Quincy Symphony Orchestra.

Irwin also was a board member and a driving force behind the creation of SIUE's Mississippi River Festival. He received SIUE's Distinguished Service Award. He also has served on the governing bodies of many arts organizations, including serving as the first chairman of the Illinois Arts Council.

Private developer may buy historic Wildey Theater

The city of Edwardsville is teaming up with The Alliance of Edwardsville & Glen Carbon to sell the historic Wildey Theater to a private developer.

The City Council has voted to assign a six-month option on the Wildey to The Alliance. The option, which runs through May 1, 1999, will cost the city $10,000.

"We have entered into an agreement with The Alliance to start the process of actively promoting and accepting proposals for the redevelopment of the Wildey," Mayor Gary Niebur said after the meeting.

The city approved an agreement assigning the option to The Alliance specifically for the purpose of having the not-for-profit corporation serve as the agent or facilitator for the project and to secure proposals from developers. said Mike Pierceall, executive director of The Alliance.

"We will have a six-month window of opportunity," Niebur said. "With full support from the city, The Alliance will market that facility."

Under the terms of the option, the city will pay $10,000 to the owners of the Wildey, Frans and Marie VanBalkom, who are abroad. That means the VanBalkoms will be barred from selling, transferring or making any other arrangements for the property while the option is in effect.

Pierceall noted several private developers previously had expressed interest in acquiring the Wildey building.

The Alliance's executive director said the six-month option "would allow time for developers to step up and see how feasible it would be to acquire the property and renovate it for a specific use."

He said the aim would be to develop the Wildey, 252 N. Main St., for a use "compatible" with its history.

Since its opening in 1909, the Wildey has presented movies, vaudeville shows, traveling productions, lectures, concerts, comedy acts and cooking shows.

'I Still Know' is more a poor copy than a sequel

Weak plot leaves movie far short of original

Slasher movies seemed to be entering a new golden age. "Scream" was crisp and witty, self-referential and terrifying. "Scream 2" was even better. "I Know What You Did Last Summer" was a textured tale of lost innocence and the consequences of lying, masquerading as a slice-and-dice film.

Then things derailed this fall with the awful "Urban Legend." Now, quality's death knell sounds in "I Still Know What You Did Last Summer," less a sequel than a pasty-pale imitation of the original with the action moved to a tropical island.

Where "I Know" was filled with echoes of post-adolescent broken dreams and recriminations, "I Still Know" is a parade of dismemberments, disembowelments and eviscerations, bound by the thinnest of plots — and the dubious tension of wondering whether the two young stars will survive to jiggle another day.

Julie James (Jennifer Love Hewitt), who at the end of the first movie seemed to be poised to die at the hands of murderous fisherman Ben Willis (Muse Watson), is inexplicably back at college a year later, studying at summer school and still haunted by the memory of the previous two July Fourths. On the first, she and three friends, speeding on a mountain road over a beach, accidentally hit a fisherman. They thought they had killed him. But as they dumped him into the sea to hide the deed, he awoke.

Exactly a year later, the fisherman, Willis, came back and, armed with an ice pick and dressed like the Gorton's fisherman, started killing people in the small fishing town of Southport, N.C. (Why are they ALWAYS small towns? Don't the hapless urban teens of, say, New York or Chicago deserve their share of getting picked off violently?)

He almost got Julie and her sometime boyfriend, Ray Bronson (Freddie Prinze Jr., eerily reminiscent of a Norman Bates-era Tony Perkins), but they managed to do him in. Or did they?

"I Still Know" finds Julie heading — thanks to a radio contest to a remote island of the Bahamas with her new bestest friend, Karla Wilson (Brandy), Karla's boyfriend Tyrell (Mekhi Phifer) and Julie's wannabe boyfriend Will Benson (Matthew Settle). The vacation is for... THE JULY FOURTH WEEKEND. Hello!

With obligatory killer's-eye-view shots and quasi-Hitchcockian oblique angles, "I Still Know" is a technically sound, if unoriginal, movie. There's nothing really wrong with it except that it isn't very good.

Jennifer Love Hewitt and Brandy in a scene from "I Still Know What You Did Last Summer."

It is, though, somewhat muddled if you haven't seen the first film.

"I Still Know What You Did Last Summer" is rated R.

Ventura not 1st athlete in politics

Bradley, Kemp among others to win office

Trivia

Kevin Carbery

By Kevin Carbery
Staff writer

Gov. Jesse "The Mind" Ventura. There is something odd about the sound of that.

Those who follow the news know that Ventura, the former pro wrestler, was elected governor of Minnesota earlier this month.

This slays me as I can recall when Ventura, then known as "The Body," ran around wearing a feather boa and wounding guys over the head with metal folding chairs during his performances. He is a funny guy and, from some accounts, intelligent, but — come on.

It would make me uneasy to think that my state's governor used to make a living by throwing headlocks on people and growling threats into microphones.

Ventura's campaign victory, however, brings up the interesting topic of people other than lawyers, military officers and businessmen getting into positions of political power.

At the top of the list would be Ronald Reagan, of course. Reagan was a B-movie actor became president of the Screen Actors Guild, host of "Death Valley Days," on TV, then governor of California and, finally, president of the United States. His success in politics seemed to spur other celebrities to throw their hats into the ring.

Clint Eastwood became mayor of Carmel, Calif. Sonny Bono was elected mayor of (See TRIVIA, Page 8D)

•Trivia

Palm Springs, Calif., then a U.S. congressman from his state.

There have also been a number of people who made names for themselves in sports before pursuing political positions. Bill Bradley, an NBA star out of Crystal City, became a U.S. senator.

Jack Kemp, a star quarterback in the old American Football League, was secretary of housing and urban development during the Bush administration.

History may have worked out differently had Fidel Castro impressed the Washington Senators during his pitching tryout.

For this week's trivia, the topic is people who have gone into politics from non-traditional political backgrounds.

1. Name the former major league pitcher who was elected a U.S. congressman, then a U.S. senator, from Kentucky.

2. Which actress was appointed U.S. chief of protocol in 1976?

3. Which actor from the TV show "The Dukes of Hazzard" became a U.S. representative from Georgia in 1988?

4. Which Academy Award-winning actress won election to the British Parliament in 1992?

5. Name the actress who lost to Richard Nixon in a race for a U.S. Senate seat from California in 1950.

6. Which actor from the TV show "Maverick" was elected mayor of Huntington Beach, Calif., in 1983?

7. Which actress was elected to the Greek parliament in 1977?

8. The president of the Czech Republic is what famous playwright?

9. Who is the NFL wide receiver and Hall of Famer who is a U.S. congressman from Oklahoma?

10. Who is the current U.S. senator from Tennessee who has acted in numerous films and television shows?

ANSWERS: 1. Jim Bunning, who won over 200 games in his big league career. 2. Shirley Temple Black, who also has held several ambassadorial posts. 3. Ben Jones, who played Cooter the mechanic on the show. 4. Glenda Jackson. 5. Helen Gahagan Douglas. 6. Jack Kelly, who played Bret Maverick. James Garner was Bart Maverick. 7. Melina Mercouri. 8. Vaclav Havel. 9. Steve Largent, the great Seattle Seahawks pass catcher. 10. Fred Thompson.

Kevin Carbery can be heard on "The Entertainment and Trivia Show" at 8 p.m. Sundays on KMOX Radio.

'Lughnasa' stumbles on screen

The spring has gone out of the step of "Dancing at Lughnasa," the Brian Friel play that represents hardly the first theatrical triumph to stumble on its way to the screen.

The surprise isn't that director Pat O'Connor's film, starring Meryl Streep as the eldest of five spinster Irish sisters, should falter where the stage play took wing. The more important question is why anyone even attempted to do a movie of this particular slice-of-memory.

In the theater, audiences were held rapt by the tension between Friel's singular poetry and the melancholy, even mournful events being described over one particular County Donegal summer in 1936.

The screen version, by contrast, is stacy in a way the play never was. While it might have some success as what used to be called, rather patronizingly, a "woman's picture," audiences of both genders may feel shortchanged.

The screenplay is by Frank McGuinness, himself an Irish dramatist of note, who follows the outline of Friel's Tony Award-winning script without capturing the defining music of Ireland's senior playwright at his most haunting.

The setting remains rural Ireland in the era of the "wireless," or radio, at a time when the villagers are awaiting the annual late-summer harvest festival of "la lughnasa" — named for Lugh, the Celtic god of light.

The celebrations promise release for five women whose lives sorely need some uplift.

Elders sister Kate Mundy (Streep) is a pinched-faced schoolteacher, hair flecked with the gray of years of worry, whose job is on the line. Youngest daughter Rose (Sophie Thompson), in turn, is as wide-eyed as she is — in the mental health parlance of the day — "simple."

In between the two come Maggie (Kathy Burke), the family's most intrinsic free spirit given to humming pagan songs; Agnes (Brid Brennan, in an underwritten version of the role that won her a Tony on Broadway), whose craft making handmade gloves

HOROSCOPE

THURSDAY, NOV. 19

When you look for good fortune, you start forgetting about the abundance around you. The moon joins Venus in Sagittarius, which may cause people confusion regarding prospects. Things on the other side of the fence look better, but this is the classic illusion. Be mindful of others as you take advantage of Sagittarian influences.

TODAY'S BIRTHDAY (Nov. 19). There's no question that you will love and be loved this year by the people who mean the most. But find new ways to express it. You have the most luck when you are playful. Next month provides an opportunity to excel financially. Partnering with an Aquarius or Libra is lucky. Check out April's investment prospect with skepticism. Marriage is likely in July.

ARIES (March 21-April 19). When everyone says the rules are unchangeable, you get busy and surprise them all. Fix a friendship by admitting the long-kept secret between you. Give away your uncomfortable or unflattering clothes.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20). A good friendship requires thoughtfulness and shared activity — people who merely want to dump their problems on you are not doing you any friendly favors. You deserve to be in love with someone who isn't stingy.

GEMINI (May 21-June 21). Time spent trying to change someone's mind is time wasted. Accept first answers, and move on. Do the laundry or the shopping, and you'll meet someone who can help your career.

CANCER (June 22-July 22). Getting some natural light is a necessity for your positive mood. One who envies your accomplishments is still trying to adopt your mannerisms. You know what you want in love — you prize modesty and scorn vanity.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22). If you try to make yourself comfortable, you could end up bored instead. Your emotional nature is agile lately, stretching to catch a connection with other humans who like the thrill of risk as you do. Accept your need for excitement.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22). You are talented in ways others can only dream of being. Take stock of your uniqueness instead of wishing you had what a friend has. The move of a higher-up favorably affects your money situation.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23).

'Mexico '98' exhibition set at SIUE

"Mexico '98" exhibition, a show of art made by students at Southern Illinois University who have spent time studying in Mexico, begins at 6 p.m. Dec. 1, with a reception in the New Wagner Gallery of the SIUE Art and Design Building. It will continue through Dec. 18.

The show this year is a result of a trip 18 students took last summer to Tlaxiaco, a small village in the mountains of rural Oaxaca State, Mexico. Each year, students from the Mexico Project have brought back their newfound knowledge and created pieces based on the techniques they learned. Those pieces have then been put on display.

Strong support from loved ones lends a feeling of security. Combat moodiness with better exercise and nutrition. Be generous with positive energy, and you won't be lonely.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 21). Quick trips, perhaps out of town, are both fun and necessary. Set dates with a Libra or Leo if adventure whets your appetite. Relax, and pamper yourself tonight. You deserve it!

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21). Have patience with a family member who always seems to be coming apart at the seams. Few are able to organize feelings as neatly as you are. Surprises are in the mail; news from a lawyer or doctor is good.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19). Hugs and kisses can be very influential. Don't mold yourself to the wishes of a loved one, though potent chemistry will make it hard to be strong. The need to feel safe and protected is emphasized.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18). If your to-do list is incredibly long, don't worry. By the time you make it halfway through, the other tasks are magically assumed by someone else or no longer relevant. Find alternative ways to get healthier.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20). Know when you've had enough — you don't have to be overbearing to lay down the law. Even out the playing field between romantic competitors by leaving behind preconceived notions. Dinner brings excellent news.

Dancer has performed with Davis, Hines

By Mary J. Schirmer
Correspondent

Since he was 5, south St. Louisan Rolandas Hendricks has been intrigued with dancing. He made a serious, personalized study of dance and then tapped and whirled his way onto stage and screen.

"It was all natural ability," Hendricks said. "Whatever dance was out, I would just pick up on — jazz, ballet, tap."

Of all forms of dance, though, tap won his heart. And he was seen in the Riverdance production, which closed

"It's just the sound, the rhythm. When you can go in and just create and come up with different tones of the tap, it just fascinates you."

Rolandas Hendricks

Wednesday at the Fox Theatre.

"It's just the sound, the rhythm," he said. "When you can go in and just create and come up with different tones of the tap, it just fascinates you."

As a boy, Hendricks admired the Four Step Brothers in Saturday movie matinees. Even though some of his friends teased him and called his dancing "sissy stuff," he wanted to learn the intricate footwork.

The chance to train with Maceo Anderson of the famous Four Step Brothers lured Hendricks from St. Louis to Las Vegas after he graduated from Roosevelt High School. While attending the University of Nevada at Las Vegas, he won a role as an understudy in Anderson's cruise ship act.

"What little tap I thought I knew, I showed him," Hendricks said with a laugh. "He said, 'That's not tap dancing.' Then he showed us all of these steps."

Tap has its own terminology, and Hendricks learned the steps he had been doing have names: shuffle, brush toe, — cramp tones, flips and over the top, among others.

"Then it went on to another stage," Hendricks said. "You have to learn how to improvise (improvise). That was the fun part. You're like, 'Oh, my goodness.' Tap is really broken down into how you feel and what you feel. I'm talking to you; I'm saying something."

Lead dancer in "Eubie" and "The Crucible," Hendricks, 36, has appeared on Broadway in "Black and Blue" and in Las Vegas in "Mad Hattan."

He danced in these feature films: "Gleaming the Cube," "House Party 2," "Double Panic" and "Tap," which starred Sammy Davis Jr. and Gregory Hines.

His dancing and choreography television credits include work with L.L. Cool and Alfonso Riebro.

Hendricks lives in Los Angeles with his wife and children. After working with stars of film and television, he's considering more involvement in film.

He was the lead dancer in the "Trading Taps" number of "Riverdance: The Show" at the Fox Theatre.

Watching him smoothly glide and tap across the huge Fox stage, trading routines with "Riverdance" star and Irish dance champion Pat Roddy convinces the audience that Hendricks loves his work.

"I had the privilege to be around a lot of the old hoofers, and some of them have passed," Hendricks said. "Now we have the opportunity to share this with people around the world. Performing for people makes me want to do it even more."

•'Lughnasa'

won't be needed in the newly mechanized age; and Christina (Catherine McCormack), who has defied local convention by having a child out of wedlock.

Her so-called "love child," Michael, narrated the play, and some of his language survives the voice-overs that frame the movie. But the urge to open up the play — to make it properly cinematic — almost does the material in.

Whereas Friel's play kept the lughnasa festival in the wings, O'Connor's camera takes us right to it in an awkward encounter that looks like an outtake from Nicholas Hytner's film version of "The Crucible" several years ago.

And when Rose suddenly disappears, much to the alarm of her siblings, the movie takes us to the lake to which she has unwisely repaired with local roustabout Danny Bradley (Lorcan Cranitch).

The story isn't entirely focused on its women.

The lone Mundy brother, Jack (Michael Gambon), is a priest newly returned from Africa bearing his own pagan notions. It's a shame, then, that the film — and Gambon's relentlessly openmouthed performance — makes Father Jack as much of a simpleton as Rose herself.

The play's resident charmer, and errant father of young Michael, was the Welshman Gerry Evans, who arrived on his scooter to raise the women's quickly dashed spirits. As played in the movie by Rhys Ifans, the unabashed hellion from last year's "Twin Town," the charm is gone.

There are, to be sure, incidental pleasures.

Tony-winner Marie Mullen ("The Beauty Queen of Leenane") has a vivid cameo as the woman who breaks the bad news to Agnes of her impending unemployment.

And of the sisters, the kind-eyed Burke — the battered spouse of Gary Oldman's "Nil by Mouth" — makes Maggie an immediately likable presence, even when the screenplay dilutes the idiosyncratic pungency that the part once had.
